Core Mechanic: Movement

Movement will be the core and most important mechanic to get correct. It is used in all other game elements like traversal, exploration, platforming, combat, stealth, puzzle solving, and so on. Thus, it must feel responsive and smooth in order to have a strong foundation for the entire game.

The player will start with the following basic movement abilities:

- Move: Move left/right at default speed.
- Jump: Jump up into the air from the ground.

Then will further upgrade their movement with the following “slime” abilities:

- Slime Puddle (crouch): Lower and widen yourself into the ground and become a puddle that moves at reduced speeds.
- Slippery Slime (ground dash and sprint): Alter your exterior to ignore friction and air resistance. Do so on the ground either: briefly, for a quick burst of speed; or over a prolonged period of time for reckless high speed travel.
- Bouncy Slime (wall jump): Alter your consistency to become bouncy, allowing you to bounce and jump off walls.
- Sticky Slime (wall and ceiling climb): Alter your exterior and make it sticky, allowing you to climb up and down walls and stick to ceilings.
- Slime Launch (mid air jump and dash): Shoot out a specialized hardened slime from beneath or behind you. The recoil will launch you up or forward, allowing you to jump and dash mid air.
